

Clean Energy School Leaders Network

Generation180 is building a network of school leaders who have flipped the switch to clean energy at their schools and will help inspire and support other schools to adopt solar and related clean energy technologies.

We invite you to be a Clean Energy School Leader.

Liz Doerr
Vice Chair of School Board
Richmond Public Schools (VA)

Benefits of Joining the Network

Gain public recognition for your clean energy leadership

Solar success stories, best practices, and lessons learned will be shared in our resources, website, presentations, and digital content.

Receive media, public speaking, and advocacy opportunities

School leaders will be given opportunities to promote your school district, connect with media, present at events and conferences, and advocate for strong solar policy.

Grow your network and enhance your leadership skills

Generation180 will facilitate opportunities for leaders to connect with peers and provide free resources and trainings to develop your leadership and advocacy skills.

Showcasing the Clean Energy Leadership of Richmond Public Schools:

- Case study in state solar schools report
- Media coverage on solar project
- Guest blog by school board member advocating for clean energy policy

Expectations for School Leaders

- Sharing of visuals and information about your school's clean energy projects (including solar, battery storage, energy efficiency, and electric vehicles) for use by Generation180
- Availability to connect and share with school districts about solar, clean energy technologies, and continuous improvement in energy management
- Availability to share your clean energy story and experience with media and partners
- Availability to participate in trainings or events for Clean Energy School Leaders convened by Generation180
- Availability to participate in and present at solar tours, events, and conferences related to clean energy and schools
- Listing on the Generation180 website as a Clean Energy School Leader
- Responsibility to notify Generation180 on any professional or role changes that would affect your eligibility to participate as a Clean Energy School Leader