

School Leadership in Clean Energy (SLICE) Network

School Leader Spotlight

Dr. Michael Hester
Superintendent
Batesville School District, AR

- Led district towards 100% clean energy with no upfront costs
- Advocated for a new state policy to expand access to solar financing
- Featured in New York Times, CBS News, AP News, and other national media outlets

Generation180 is supporting a network of K-12 school leaders who are advancing clean energy adoption in their schools and communities to encourage and support other school leaders to flip the switch.

Join us as a School Leader for Clean Energy!

Benefits of Joining the Network

Gain public recognition for your schools

Network members receive support, training, and resources to share their school's success stories.

Grow as a clean energy leader

Network members will promote their school district, connect with media, and present at conferences and events, and advocate for clean energy.

Connect with other school leaders

The network holds quarterly virtual meetings for leaders to connect, share, and learn from peers.

Engagement Opportunities

On average, school leaders spend one hour a month engaged in the network.

LEARN

- Join network trainings and events convened by Generation180
- Receive a monthly email newsletter with the latest news and resources for schools
- Obtain resources and support for continuing to advance clean energy technologies at your schools

SHARE

- Showcase your schools' clean energy projects through storytelling opportunities created by Generation180
- Participate in facilities tours, events, and conferences to share your clean energy experience
- Share your clean energy story and experience with peers, media, and the general public

CONNECT

- Mentor other school leaders to adopt clean energy and join the network
- Connect with peers leading on clean energy through quarterly virtual network meetings
- Join a movement for clean energy at K-12 schools and network with supporting organizations and stakeholders
